CONDUCTOR OPENS FIRE, GETS WORST END OF BARGAIN.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 23.—Conductor Raymond Butts, of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, who was shot last Friday by a Colored man who was riding on his train out of Palatka, died about 12:20 o'clock Saturday at St. Luke's hospital from the wound inflicted by the pistol bullet which went through his body. It appears some Colored men were reported to have beaten up an old white man at Sanford, and Conductor Butts, had been notified to be on the lookout for them, as they would likely try to leave on the freight train. Butts, discovering the Colored man, thought he was one of those wanted.

The man was named Nat Richards, but was not one of the pair who had assaulted the Sanford man. Conductor Butts thinking he was wanted, took no chances and open fire on the man, who returned it and shot the railroad man in the shoulder, and when he fell fired another bullet into his body.

Deputy Sheriff Meade Hunt went to the hospital and secured a statement from Butts. He said he realized he was in a dying condition and swore to the following:

"I started back to my cab and met a Colored man on the cab steps. I asked him what he wanted, and he started to draw a pistol from his bosom.

"I then drew my pistol and shot twice before he fired. His first shot struck me in the face or shoulder, I don't know which. After I fell he shot me in the buttock.

I had been warned that two Colored men were on my train, and they were dangerous and to be careful. That is the reason I did not take any chances and fired first."

It was the bullet wound in the buttock which proved fatal to the conductor, as it passed through his body.

Richards, after the shooting, ran to a patch of scrub palmettas, but the conductor lying on the ground fired and struck him in the middle of the back, bringing him to the ground. It is believed he is fatally wounded. He was taken in charge by the Palatka authorities.

The two men wanted for assaulting the white man at Sanford were later found along the railroad track by Sheriff Hagan and deputies of Palatka, and one of them attempted to draw a pistol, but was shot by the sheriff with a Winchester rifle.

Richards was taken from the Putman county jail by Sheriff Hagan and removed to a place of safety, Hagan having heard that a mob was being formed at Jacksonville to lynch the prisoner. Richards' companion, known as Andrew Jackson, was shot by the sheriff's posse when he tried to draw a gun after the posse had run him down, died an hour later. Richards is wounded, Butts having shot him as he lay on the ground, wounded in five places. Everything is quiet and no disturbance is expected.

WANT JAPS BARRED

Washington, Oct. 23.—The so-called "gentlemen's agreement" between the United States and Japan is being violated by the latter country, declared V. S. McClatchy of Sacramento, Cal., and Miller Freeman of Seattle before the house immigration committee. The agreement provides that no Japanese laborers shall be admitted to this country. The witnesses urged adoption of a policy of absolute exclusion by the United States and the deportation of Asiatics now in this country. The Sacramento witness declared that the situation on the Pacific coast was an example of what would happen elsewhere and would finally result "in the United States being made a Japanese providence."

"The question is purely an economic one, not a racial one," said Mr. McClatchy, who assailed the making of the gentlemen's agreement as "a serious blunder."

"The Japanese government is issuing passports under any head except labor," asserted Mr. Freeman. "The only way of solving the problem is by legislation; it cannot be solved by administration of existing laws."

Mr. McClatchy said a policy of absolute exclusion of the Japanese because of their economic standards would be but practicing a policy enforced by the Japanese in their country against the Chinese and Koreans. The first importation of Chinese laborers into Japan occurred last December, he said, and resulted in the government compelling the industrial concern bringing them to the island to return them in January, at an expenditure of $25,000 of the concern's funds.
